

Simon R. Clematide

University of Zurich, Institute of Computational Linguistics, Binzmuehlestr. 14, 8050 Zurich

Email: simon.clematide@cl.uzh.ch

Phone: +41 44 635 7121

Web: www.cl.uzh.ch/siclemat

Date of birth: 23.3.1968

Nationality: Swiss

Family: married, 3 children

Education

2006: Dr. phil in Computational Linguistics (University of Zurich)

1999: lic. phil in German Linguistics, Informatics/Computational Linguistics, Philosophy (University of Zurich)

1990: Diploma for primary school teacher (Seminar Kreuzlingen, TG)

Employment

2010-present: Part-time project staff member (postdoc researcher) at Zurich University in Swiss NSF project SaSeBio (Semi-Automated Semantic Enrichment of Biomedical Texts)

2006-present: Senior lecturer and research staff member (part-time) at the University of Zurich

2001-2010: Web development (part-time) as a freelancer

2009-2010: Part-time project staff member at Text Mining Services (NITAS), Novartis Pharma AG, Basel for the project ontogene.org

1999-2005: Assistant at the Institute of Computational Linguistics, University of Zurich

Publications

All publications and presentations are available at <http://www.cl.uzh.ch/siclemat>. They cover topics as finite-state morphology and syntactic analysis for German, lexicography, and text mining.

Skills

- Teaching: Extensive and permanent university level teaching experience starting from 1999
- E-Learning: Expertise in design and implementation of different E-Learning Web applications
- IT Skills: In-depth knowledge and expertise with programming languages as PERL, PHP, Prolog, XML, Shell scripting, JavaScript, Java, Finite-State Tools; Linux server administration
- Languages: German (mother tongue), English, French, Italian (basic)
- Team work: Experience in different interdisciplinary projects (biomedicine, political science, psychology)

References

- Prof. Dr. Michael Hess, Institute of Computational Linguistics, University of Zurich, hess@cl.uzh.ch
- Prof. Dr. Martin Volk, Institute of Computational Linguistics, University of Zurich, volk@cl.uzh.ch
- Dr. Martin Romacker, NITAS Text Mining Services, Novartis Pharma AG, 4002 Basel, martin.romacker@novartis.com

February 12, 2011